

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An elastomeric cover for an orthopedic implant, the elastomeric cover having a seamless articulating surface which is at least part of a three-dimensional curved surface, wherein a cross-section of a portion of the seamless articulating surface subtends an arc greater than 180 degrees. Methods for forming the elastomeric cover are disclosed.